

Abstract

A cushion (101) for use in an aircraft seat, comprises a foam structure having a first region (102) of a low-density flame retardant foam, a second region (103) of a flame retardant polyurethane foam and a sealing barrier (104) disposed at the interface between the first and second regions.